I own architecture and performance on large codebases, and run the code review that keeps them maintainable. Most of what I ship is infrastructure other teams build on: low-code platforms, back-office systems, document management, e-commerce. React, Next.js and TypeScript on the front, Node.js and PostgreSQL behind it, with LLM features in the recent products.

WHAT I'VE OWNED

- Designed the DSL behind a low-code reporting platform, so analysts could write their own formulas instead of filing tickets.
- Worked directly with clients in the EU and the US, with no manager in between.
- Owned the frontend architecture of that platform: a widget system configured at runtime.
- Built payments and subscriptions from the store receipt through to the renewal job.
- Took LLM features from prototype to production, inside real product flows, not a demo chatbot.
- Kept large tables and charts responsive on codebases too large for one engineer to hold in full context.
- Set up the code review process, and mentored the developers who joined after.
